

Commitment to Well-Being During the COVID-19 Pandemic

(As of March 2, 2022)

AAP considers the safety of all those onsite at the 2022 AAP Annual Conference in person as our top priority. This Commitment to Well-Being provides guidance for attendees and is a living document that may evolve, incorporating features that are designed to further enhance the onsite experience and safety for everyone in attendance. However, by choosing to attend the 2022 AAP Annual Conference in person, attendees are acknowledging that they are fully and knowingly aware of the existence of COVID-19 and understand and accept the risk that participation in an in-person meeting may expose attendees to COVID-19.

AAP is committed to hosting a safe event for all participants and to this end expects all attendees, staff, speakers, and vendors to comply with CDC, state and local health and safety requirements, as well as AAP's safety protocols, including any requirements for mask wearing and social distancing, as well as respecting room capacity restrictions, minimizing face touching, frequently washing hands and avoiding high-risk environments such as overcrowded bars or restaurants.

As of March 2, 2022, all AAP Annual Conference attendees and staff are not required to wear a face covering at the Conference. However, AAP strongly encourages attendees and staff to wear face coverings at the Annual Conference. In no case will disrespect for an individual's choice to wear, or not wear, a face covering be tolerated.

AAP continues to monitor the spread of COVID-19 and its variants, and reserves the right to modify any of these precautions, guidelines, recommendations and/or expectations to conform to the then-current guidance or recommendations of the CDC, DOH and other applicable guidance or recommendations as appropriate. AAP's policies may also differ from those in place at the Seven Springs Mountain Resort overall or by other groups at the same facility.

Attendees are expected to review the COVID-19 screening questions provided and should not attend if they cannot provide appropriate and satisfactory answers.

If an attendee begins to experience any symptoms of COVID-19, as identified by the CDC, while attending the Conference, that individual is expected to immediately inform the designated AAP staff person and isolate in their hotel room pending further guidance, and to follow all applicable CDC, DOH and other recommendations or requirements. AAP will facilitate access to medical personnel for attendees to assist in evaluating any circumstances and/or making any decisions related to public health matters that may arise during the conference that are related to COVID-19.
